A story of a Kurdish child's survival in the land of chemical experiments. With her story, she walks the reader through her worst nightmares that peace is becoming impossible. She reveals that she has a powerful love affair which according to Iraqi culture must remain unspoken. She devotes her life to bring stability and freedom to her land. Also to protect the borders of America from terrorist attack by attempting to bring a secret document to the nations of the West.

Her story inspires the reader with her courage and determination to never give up. This story is to undo the doubt of much of the world about what is really happening in Iraq. To prevent the young men of Iraq from following blindly the dictates of those who would keep Iraqis in chains.
