The Bhagavad Gita is the most celebrated and ancient scriptures of India. It is part of the epic called Mahabaratha. It is thousands of years old and one of the very few scriptures that have survived the ravages of time. Great and successful people all over the world have drawn inspiration from these scriptures.

----- This is a book by a common person for the common population in pursuit of eternal joy and liberation. The content of this book is primarily derived from the time wisdom contained in the 'Bhagavad Gita'. I am an independent author, not affiliated with any religious or political organization. I have focused only on extracting the actionable items or 'commandments' from this scripture. I have not made any attempts to re-interpret or provide my own version of the meaning of the verses contained in this scripture. Many great scholars like Swami Ranganathananda, Bhakti Vedanta Swami Prabhupada, Swami Vivekananda, Bal Gangadhar Tilak, Swami Sankaracharya, Georg Feuerstein etc.

have all provided excellent interpretations. These are the works that I have drawn inspiration from.
