To lifelong friends Renestrae, Evelyn, and Kalaria winning an all expenses paid trip to Scotland seemed like the best turn of luck that any of them had ever had. The landscape was beautiful, the men had the sexiest accents Renestrae and Kalaria had ever heard, even Evelyn seemed eager to put her modern sensibilities aside for the myths and folklore of the country. Then the murders started and their peaceful vacation soon turned into a nightmare and it isn't long before Renestrae makes a startling discovery one that sensible Evelyn would never believe, one that could land her a one way ticket in a padded cell, but someone has to know. It isn't some psychopath terrorizing the citizens of Fearchar, Scotland but a water horse, a Kelpie, and if they're not careful they could be the next victims of the town's curse.
