Max Rennie is a man on a mission. After serving a year in prison for a crime he didn't commit Max is keen to hunt down the perpetrator and bring him to justice. He teams up with an old buddy and together they discover a web of deceit and corruption stretching far beyond the original hit-and-run that he was falsely jailed for.

Max' task becomes more complicated when he discovers that other people are looking for him. Some bad people and some not-so-bad people. Follow Max on his journey through New Zealand's North Island as he stalks his prey and share his ethical dilemma as he considers his options. There are cops, gangsters, politicians and a hacker.

There's even a bit of rumpy-pumpy. What more could a reader want?
