Its the holidays and Wally Moreno is working his part time job, stocking the shelves and making sure they meet his high standards. Sean Delaney, looking like he stepped off the pages of GQ magazine, spies Wally straightening the ladies' lingerie and invents an excuse to meet the intriguing man who caresses the diaphanous fabrics like a cherished lover. Unable to believe the gorgeous and worldly Sean is interested in him, Wally nonethe invites Sean to his home for Christmas Eve with the Moreno family. Sean is perfection unleashed and everyone agrees, he's a keeper. But Wally has a secret, something that has kept him from moving into loving relationship. Is Sean the man for him? Will he look past Wally's idiosyncrasy and love him for himself?
