Book five in the Were Chronicles Series A wolf and bobcat come together and change one community, forever. Grayson Mason is worn out and run down from the long months on the road in search of the feline Prince. All he wants is to finish his mission and go back to his Pack. That is, until he meets the one woman who will turn his world upside down. Beth Williams is happy in Coyote Bluff. The community of shifters support one another and she has her brother and nephew. Sure, sometimes she might get lonely, but she's never connected with anyone enough to consider mating. That is, until a new wolf hits town. With the arrival of Gray, she has to rethink her entire life. But there is more going on than just the attraction between the wolf and the bobcat. Gray's search is bringing him closer to finding the Prince but at the same time leading him right into the middle of a feline conspiracy and a battle. Gray finds himself fighting not only for the Prince's survival, but also to protect his future mate. Reader Advisory: This book is best read in sequence as part of a series.
