-What would I do if faced by a psycho in a clown outfit that wanted me, and the ones I loved, dead?- About the book:It can be a hard bounce, hitting rock bottom and then starting back up in the world, but Jason Hadley is doing it. Slowly, and without much dignity at times, he's managing to claw his way skyward again. Working as a clown isn't the only way to do that, but it's a way, beats crime, and too few colleges are hiring good history professors anymore. When his best friends, Carlos and Wendy, get him a stage gig in Las Vegas it seems like a dream come true. Until his past comes calling, haunting him with old enemies, and a dead client, all trying to tear him back down into the gutter. Because a killer clown is on the loose, and Jay is the only game that way in his hometown. It's both a natural connection for the Sheriff to make, and an obvious frame up job. The question then is; who would bother going after a kids' entertainer? More than that; what kind of person would do it dressed up like a bozo? When it comes time to catch a clown, it might just take one to get the job done. One with ten faces and a hundred tricks, as well as a love of mysteries that won't let him quite until he understands the most important question of all.

Why? *There is always a time to take action, and to not let go of what you have in your own hands. That can be a hard on for some people, but it's value is... incalculable. Don't let the good things get away.
