Sarah Lewis has a pickle to work out. It's a week away from one of her friend's weddings and Sarah needs to find someone to fill in as a groomsman.

Short on time and social skills, she turns to speed dating. For someone who is slightly anti-social, it's sure to be a on in what not to do.

Reid King is too focused on his hockey career to worry about dating. When a plus one is needed for dinner with a potential sponsor, he turns to desperate measures to try to make sure he doesn't screw up a high-dollar deal. Little does he know, it's his date he'll be more worried about than making the deal. Neither one of them expected to find a piece that's been missing in their lives, but that's exactly what it feels like from the moment they see each other. Will they find their temporary needs for dates turn into something more? Or will one of their pasts show up and hurt any chance of a future together? ** This book is for mature audiences because of sexual content and language.
