Cutter had given up on finding a woman when Hope sauntered right into his bar.

With her straight talk, toned figure, and military training, she can disarm a man in more ways than one. But the mission she's on will shake up Cutter's world. Hope's lost her younger sister, but she hasn't lost her namesake. It's been almost two years since Faith vanished, but Hope hasn't given up the search. She'll either find her sister or some answers. Can Cutter keep his club out of trouble and help the siren in his bar on her mission? One can only hope...
