Do you believe in destiny, this thing called fate, those times that can't quite be explained? Sometimes it only takes one moment and fate leaves its calling card unannounced on your doorstep. Katie Brewer and Sully Maguire were two people who had stopped believing in miracles at least for them. For years, Katie Brewer longed for the father she never had, and Sully Maguire, well, he just needed to believe in people again and to know, in whatever form it took, that love was possible, one more time. On a clear, autumn day, Katie Brewer walked into Sully's Place, thinking it would be just like any other day. However, a miracle came calling for Sully Maguire and Katie Brewer when they least expected it, changing their lives as they knew it forever. Destiny was about to bring each of them one true friend.

It was, after all, a father-daughter thing.
